

Inscriptions from Abusir

Randa Balegh

The paper will be discussing three Old Kingdom limestone plaques from the Fifth Dynasty which had been discovered at the Sun Temple of King Userkaf in Abusir in the late 1950s. They have Hieroglyphic inscriptions with simple handwriting which displayed some special characteristics such as the way certain signs were written. In addition to discussing the calligraphy of the inscriptions, the paper will discuss some matters concerning the organization of the work force.
